The company offers a domestic and international shipping service and handles the transport of documents, packages, and pallets. In addition, it supports customers in choosing the most favorable shipping method. This is done through a software environment that includes an overview of carriers and a scheduling overview. The software operates with a single billing system and a service organization that organizes the planning and acts as a helpdesk.

The company has its headquarters in the Southwest Netherlands. The shipping platform is leased from an external software supplier. In addition, the organization has its own software for invoicing. It works with reputable carriers and efficient processes have been put in place to ensure reliable and streamlined service.
