The company is a well-positioned local lunch concept in the greater Amsterdam region, active in the sale and delivery of freshly prepared sandwiches, lunch products, and beverages. Activities are concentrated on working days and daytime hours and are supported by a proprietary online ordering platform.

The company has a recognizable product range, a business and private customer base, and a densely populated delivery area in both residential and business districts. The concept is characterized by simplicity, clarity, and a clear market proposition with room for expansion in the product range/dishes and delivery times. There are no employees active in the company.

Unique selling points

The business location has been leased for a monthly rent of €1,500 excluding VAT.

This makes the company interesting for both a strategic buyer and an entrepreneur who wants to continue and further expand an existing lunch concept.

The seller is seeking a suitable party capable of carefully continuing the business and allowing it to grow further. This concerns an asset transaction consisting of inventory, structural facilities (including air conditioning and lighting), and goodwill. The assets have an indicative value of €25,000. Delivery can take place on short notice.
